OFFICIAL MAY QUIT PLACE AS RESULT OF STRIFE

B. F. Dupuy Asserts That Unnamed Councilman Makes 'Request'

Benjamin F. Dupuy, Glendale city engineer, may present his resignation to the City Council at tomorrow's session, it was learned today.

Incidentally, there seems to be considerable mystery surrounding the threat of the official to resign.

In an exclusive interview with a reporter of The Glendale Evening News, Mr. Dupuy admitted that a long-standing friction between his department and the municipal government had finally come to a head, forcing his hand.

Asked why he planned to resign, Mr. Dupuy stated that it was "at the request of a councilman." He refused to name the member of the council who is said to have made the request.

Yesterday afternoon, after it was learned by The Glendale Evening News that there was serious trouble brewing in the department of the city engineer, a reporter talked with Virgil B. Stone, city manager, asking whether or not it was true that Mr. Dupuy would resign.

City Manager Silent

"I have nothing to say," was Mr. Stone's reply. "Anything that is given out in the matter will have to come from Mr. Dupuy, himself. I will state, however, that Mr. Dupuy has not yet tendered his resignation, nor have I asked him to."

It was predicted around the city hall today that there may be "fireworks" at the meeting of the City Council tomorrow—provided by the alleged differences between the city engineer and the municipal government.

Hopes for Agreement

Officials, when questioned, either refused to talk or declared that the matter was "news" to them.

Mr. Dupuy stated this morning that it was his hope some understanding could be reached today whereby he might "with self-respect" be able to continue in office, as he had the interests of Glendale at heart and would be glad to retain his position "if a majority of the City Council would stand behind him."

CHINA REVOLTERS HOLD AMERICANS

Young Mongolians, Backed By Soviet Russia, Hold Foreigners, Report

PEKING, Sept. 10.—Reports were received here today that a revolt has broken out in Urgua, Mongolia, among "young Mongolians" backed by soviet Russia, and that the revolutionists have imprisoned all foreigners, including several Americans.

Fears are felt here for the safety of Roy Chapman Andrews, leader of the third Asiatic exploration expedition, who is now at Urgua, arranging for his next trip into the Gobi desert where he last year discovered invaluable dinosaur eggs.

The American legation advices from the rival Chekiang and Kiangsu naval commander say that they will not engage in battle in waters adjacent to Shanghai, where foreigners might be imperiled. Eleven American and nine other foreign warships are now anchored off Shanghai.

The Chekiang-Kiangsu land battle line now extends from nine to twenty-five miles away from the city. The wounded are being taken into Shanghai and Nanking.

CITY SCHOOL INCOME ON INCREASE

Total of 560,376.14 Will Be Available for District This Fiscal Year

The estimated income of the Glendale city school district for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1924, is $510,160, exclusive of the balances on hand at that date and any moneys which may accrue from delinquent taxes of preceding years.

This figure was disclosed last night at the meeting of the Board of Education, 107½ South Brand boulevard, when Richardson D. White, superintendent of city schools, read a letter from Mark Keppel, county superintendent of schools.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. A. Barton, president. All the members were present.

Based on Valuation

The figure given is based by Mr. Keppel on the assessed valuation of $48,955,810 for the district. This exceeds the assessed valuation of $47,061,355 for the city of Glendale by $1,894,455. Mr. White explained to the members of the board, as it includes Casa Verdugo, which is not a part of the incorporated city.

The financial report rendered by the Board of Education as of August 31, 1924, shows that there is a balance on hand of $50,216.14, which brings the estimated income for the fiscal year to $560,376.14. In the estimate furnished by Mr. Keppel there is included in the total of $510,160 a buildnig fund of $29,373, a library fund of $3439 and a kindergarten fund of $53,851, which three items may be used only for the purposes stipulated.

Report Accepted

In the financial report as of August 31, the balance includes a building fund of $34,891.10, a library fund of $35.70 and a kindergarten fund of $5,601.08.

The board accepted the financial report as rendered by Mr. White. The resignations of two teachers, Miss Bessie Marks and Miss Lottie Chapman, were accepted, and Miss Catherine Barnett was promoted to kindergarten director at the Broadway school.

Mr. White read a letter from Chief John D. Fraser of the Glendale police department, stating that the policy of protecting children by escorts of patrolmen at dangerous corners will be continued.

MEN CONSCRIPTED TO FIGHT FLAMES

Members of Glendale Unit Remain on Scene as Big Fire Continues

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—More than 200 men were conscripted on the streets here today and rushed to fight the fierce forest fire raging in Angeles national forest. All residents in the district near the fire have been ordered to leave.

Reports from the burning area were obtained today with difficulty, owing to the fact that the last of the telephone lines in the region has been burned.

A fresh supply of army carrier pigeons, which are being used to carry messages to the front line fire-fighters, was dispatched to the burning forest today.

Behind the fire lines reserve crews were being assembled, more than 500 fire-fighters having reported at Pasadena, Sierra Madre and other points.

Glendale Men Give Aid In Battling Flames

Members of the Glendale unit of the Angeles Forest Protective association, who were hurried to Monrovia yesterday afternoon to help fight the fire in San Gabriel canyon, will be on the fire lines for at least another twenty-four hours, and possibly thirty-six hours, before they are withdrawn to make room for fresh men, according to Chief P. J. Hayselden, who, with Harry E. White, assistant chief, returned to Glendale late last night.

The fifteen men who were taken to Monrovia yesterday, consisted of eight employes of the W. J. Curran Construction Co., and seven from the Glendale water department, under the leadership of A. P. Hart, James Kurtz and Joe Bennett, motored to Monrovia, from where they hiked in four miles to the base of supplies.

SAYS FRANCE HEADS FOR DISASTER

Never Will Be Peace In Europe, Asserts Speaker At Sanitarium Here

"There will never be peace in Europe, for it is heading for a big catastrophe. France is going to the wall, and thinking French people know it. The Germans say they were not defeated in the World war, but were betrayed, and they are bent on seeking revenge on France."

Such was the startling prediction made last night at the Glendale Sanitarium by Dr. G. Wakeham, professor of bio-chemistry in the University of Colorado, graduate of the University of London and the University of Leipzig, who lived for twenty years in England, France, Germany, Denmark, Switzerland and Egypt.

Studies War Spirit

"I have made a careful study of the war spirit in the various countries," said Dr. Wakeham. "In England the soldiers say they will never go back to fight. The French soldiers say they don't want to fight, but because of their extreme patriotism they would do it. In Germany the soldiers don't want to fight, but they want revenge on France and would fight again to drive France into the sea.

"The French are facing a hopeless situation. Their population is going down, while the German population is increasing. Thinking French people feel desperate.

War of Revenge

"They are going to the wall and to defend themselves they are building up military powers such as Poland, Czecho-Slovakia and other countries. But there is bound to be a war of revenge sometime and England and America won't help again if they can get out of it.

"Germany feels she was betrayed by peace. She wants to get out of all terms of the peace treaty. Her attitude is expressed by the recent note in which she repudiated all blame for starting the war.

Scrap of Paper

"Every European treaty is only a scrap of paper and Europe is facing a big catastrophe."

Dr. Wakeham, who engages in extensive research work, has written several books. He spent most of the time during the war in England, but was also in service in hospitals in France.

During this summer he has been doing research work in the various Seventh-day Adventist sanitariums in California. While in Glendale he has given three lectures. The first two were on health subjects.

Judge In Slaying Case

Here are three views of JUSTICE JOHN H. CAVERLY of the Chicago criminal court, who today sentenced Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, slayers of Robert Franks, to imprisonment for life. He was both judge and jury in the case.

Slayers Cannot Be Freed On Parole For 53 Years

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb cannot, under the law of Illinois, be freed from prison for fifty-three years, under the sentences imposed today by Judge John R. Caverly.

The Illinois criminal code provisions for parole provide that no persons sentenced to life imprisonment for murder can be released on parole until they have served at least twenty years of their sentence.

The law also provides that no person sentenced for a definite term of years for a capital offense can be released on parole until at least one-third of that sentence has been served.

One-third of the ninety-nine year sentence imposed on Leopold and Loeb is thirty-three years. As Judge Caverly's sentences do not run concurrently, but successively, the least time that they will be eligible to parole will be fifty-three years—twenty on the life sentence and thirty-three on the ninety-nine year sentence.

Both are now 19 years old. They will be 72 if they survive the rigors of prison life before they are eligible to parole.

YOUTH SAVES BOYS FROM DEATH ON GALLOWS

Action Pleases Defense and Prosecution Cannot Take Appeal From Verdict

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, kidnapers and slayers of 14-year-old Bobby Franks, today were sentenced by Judge John R. Caverly to life imprisonment in the state penitentiary at Joliet—saved from the gallows by their youth.

It was the verdict which the defense had hoped for, and from which the state has no appeal. And the gay young defendants heard it with a smile, a smile they had worn from the time they first glanced into the courtroom, crowded with newspapermen, bailiffs and photographers today.

The brief decision which their judge and jury—Judge Caverly—handed down traced the legal phases of the case through all their details. He did not review the testimony, dismissing that with the statement that it was a "crime of singular atrocity, executed with every feature of callousness and cruelty."

Age Proves Factor

He then took into cognizance their plea of guilty and brought out his wish that he had had the counsel of others in fixing the penalty.

"It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law," he said, "and the court is moved chiefly by the consideration of the age of the defendants, boys of 18 and 19 years."

Age as a factor in the penalty for crimes, he held, is in accordance with the progress of criminal law all over the world and with the dictates of enlightened humanity.

"Life imprisonment," the decision reads, "may not at the moment strike the public imagination as forcibly as would death by hanging, but to the offenders, particularly of the type they are, the prolonged suffering of years

GROUP OF MINING CLAIMS IS SOLD

Building Material Deposits Are Included In $35,000 Deal Just Closed

TUJUNGA, Sept. 10.—A transaction involving a monetary consideration of $35,000 is reported in the transfer of the Frank Neher properties in Little Tujunga canyon, consisting of sixteen mining claims and two mill sites, to the Consolidated Minerals corporation. Frank J. Buck of Tujunga, production manager of the Consolidated, handled the deal, which was consummated in Pasadena, according to his report.

Construction work on a large cement and lime plant will be started in the near future, the silica mill already on the property will be enlarged, and an air compresser and drills will be installed, according to the plans. The air bin and dust chamber of the silica mill have been completed, and machinery is on the ground in the canyon. Mr. Buck's report states that he has made tests and surveys on the Neher properties for over a year, the claim being located twelve years ago as gold and silver mines, but have been found more valuable for building material, such as silica and others, than for the yield in ore. The Consolidated Minerals corporation is controlled by Pasadena and Los Angeles financiers.

It is also reported that the De Mille property in Gold canyon is producing at a profit. Air drills and a small smelter are operating and the mine is reported to be producing silver, gold, silica and iron ore.

ANNOUNCE REALTY DEALS IN BURBANK

New Buick Business Block Will Be Erected Soon; Lots Purchased

BURBANK, Sept. 10.—Two large realty deals have characterized the past few days in local building circles. One is the announcement of R. J. Goldberg of Hollywood that he will erect a brick building on his lots at the corner of San Fernando boulevard and Tujunga avenue, fifty feet on the former and 100 feet on the latter street. The other important realty deal is contained in the announcement by Jens Nelsen htat Olaf Halvorson of Huntington Park has purchased the lots at the southeast corner of San Fernando boulevard and Cypress avenue, the sellers being Dr. R. M. Attwater and Mrs. Cora Nielsen.

Mr. Halvorson, who is a director in the State bank of Burbank and who has a number of investments in Burbank business property, has indicated his faith in the further growth of the city in this important investment in additional boulevard property, which is reported to represent a large cash outlay.

Mr. Halvorson is frank enough to state that the final decision of the Board of Trustees on the program of widening the boulevard in this locality is responsible for this new investment.

Syndicate Planned

It is rumored that a $1,000,000 syndicate made up of local and eastern capital is about to begin extensive development along the newly opened Hollywood way.

Mrs. Henry March of Winona, Minn., is in the city visiting her daughter, Mrs. Harry Kanthack of the Angeleno court, and her sister, Mrs. O. H. Skeen, at 715 Angeleno avenue.

RUSH FOR WINTER FURS FOR REPAIR

S. J. Mills Enlarges Safe to Care for Large Amount Of Goods Received

S. J. Mills, located at 133 South Brand boulevard, for many years designer and maker of fur garments for the firm of A. E. Colburn, Los Angeles, until his recent establishment of his own business in Glendale, says that the past few weeks have brought such an inrush of furs to be remodeled and repaired that he has been compelled to install a large safe for the protection of his patrons' expensive garments while in his keeping.

During Mr. Mills' connection with A. E. Colburn he designed and directed the making of all of the exclusive furs worn by the movie stars and the famous and original butterfly cape worn by Bebe Daniels in "Why Change Your Wife?" was designed by Mr. Mills and made in utter seclusion to avoid infringement upon its originality before it was shown by Miss Daniels in this picturization.

Furs of all description are to be much in vogue this season, and Mr. Mills is now busily engaged in making very exclusive garments for some of the smart set. There is no better furrier on the Pacific coast, perhaps, than Mr. Mills, and likely none west of New York City more superior, and the women of Glendale and vicinity are exceptionally fortunate in having such skill and efficiency placed at their disposal.

MAKES SPECIALTY REMODELING CARS

Individual Ideas Followed In Making Over Bodies Of Automobiles

The automobile industry, like many others, has imbibed the "make-over" idea and cars of all descriptions are now being remodeled to conform to the original idea of its owner and the firm of Carl & Henry, located at 122 West Colorado street, who are thoroughly qualified and particularly adapted to this kind of work, because of their keen perception of the possibilities of transformation in this line, is turning out remodeled cars which express originality and individuality, and which probably could not be purchased at the factory at any price.

Carl & Henry manifest great pride in their work and allow nothing to leave their shop until it is as perfect as mechanical skill can make it and it is upon this reputation that these young and aggressive citizens have made such rapid strides in their business.

In addition to the make-over department which consists of completely rebuilding bodies, this firm does special fender work.

ADDED ROOMS AT SCHOOLS NEEDED

Playground Commissioners Asked to Lend Aid to Eagle Rock

EAGLE ROCK, Sept. 10.—Schools and playgrounds are considered the paramount needs of this community at the present time. It is understood the Los Angeles board of education has under consideration a plan for added local school facilities. As regards playgrounds, the Chamber of Commerce has just received word that the playground commission is investigating the matter and will make a report and recommendation when the findings are complete.

This announcement brings encouragement to playground boosters, due to the fact that Charles S. Lamb, secretary of the Los Angeles playground department, recently said that it would be entirely possible for the people of Eagle Rock to acquire a playground.

Nothing definite has been ascertained as to the location of the grounds, although the present site of the Eagle Rock auto camp has been repeatedly suggested due to its central location and the natural attractions found on the property. It is expected that final word will be given on the matter within the next two weeks.

Recalls Indian Days

Among Eagle Rock's interesting people is J. A. Goodwin, of 5127 Eagle Rock boulevard, who spent fifteen years in Texas during the days when Indians were really wild and made life extremely active for the settlers. From 1867 to 1880, Mr. Goodwin played an active part in the settling of Jacks and Wise counties. He has been a resident of Eagle Rock for the past twelve years and the stories that he tells of Eagle Rock real estate transfers and prices of twelve years ago are almost as interesting as his Indian tales.

Miss Evelyn J. Lyon of 2404 Colorado boulevard will return to this city September 14, from an extensive tour of the east, including Philadelphia, her home town. An aunt of Miss Lyon, Mrs. William J. Stewart, will return here with her as a guest.

Bruce Howard, Ernest Galpin and Parker and Robert Held have returned to Eagle Rock from their stay at Camp West Fork, Mount Wilson.

Enrollment At High School Shows 25 Per Cent Gain

REGISTRATION IS CLOSE TO 2000 MARK

Several Hundred More to Be Added In Next Few Days, Belief

A total of 1933 pupils were enrolled at the Broadway and Harvard High schools Monday morning, reports George U. Moyse, principal. This is a gain of approximately 25 per cent over the enrollment of 1544 pupils registered a year ago, when school opened.

It is expected that several hundred more pupils will be added to the enrollment within the next few days, Mr. Moyse states, bringing the total to well over 2000, as many pupils were unable to register in advance of the opening day. A full check will be made within the next day or so and the final figures announced.

Classes Function

Periods began at both schools promptly at 8 o'clock this morning, with assemblies at 8:30 o'clock, and classes continued throughout the day on exact schedule. Everywhere was a marked smoothness in the functioning of the big Glendale Union High school plant that has convinced Mr. Moyse and A. L. Ferguson, vice-principal, that their careful preliminary efforts were well spent.

Every one of the 115 teachers had his or her class completely made up and in many cases lessons that were assigned Monday bore fruit in recitations today. Only in Los Angeles and one or two other cities of the state, Mr. Moyse asserts, has such a large enrollment been handled so systematically.

They enjoyed many delightful social affairs while there, including a yachting party on Battle lake.

Travel 10,000 Miles

After leaving Breckenridge they visited other relatives, the Richard C. Wyvells in Minneapolis, Minn.

The return trip was made over the Lincoln Highway. En route home they took in all the points of interest including Chicago, Salt Lake City and Roosevelt park.

Altogether they traveled 10,000 miles making an average of 200 miles per day. The trip home from Minneapolis, Minn., was made in 12 days with Miss Oliver at the wheel.

The wanderlust proved a stronger lure than the opening of school for Marvin Hedges, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Hedges of Evelyn street, La Crescenta, and he started out in search of adventure Tuesday morning and has not been seen or heard of since.

A description given of the boy is that he has dark hair and gray eyes, and was wearing dark knickers, light shirt, blue tie, brown cap, stockings and shoes. He is a Boy Scout.

This is the first time Marvin has decided to see the world and his parents are confident that he will return very shortly. They ask that anyone seeing the boy call Glendale 2022-J-5 or report his whereabouts to The Glendale Evening News, Glendale 4000.

URGE CANYON BUS LINE AT MEETING

Resolution Asking Council For Transportation to Glen Oaks Passed

The problem of securing bus transportation for residents of Glen Oaks and vicinity, including pupils of the Glendale Academy, was discussed at a mass meeting held at the Academy building last night. The president of the Glen Oaks Improvement association, W. E. Pelly, presided at the meeting.

Among those present were the traffic manager of the Pacific Electric railway and members of the Glendale City Council. Mayor Robinson was kept away by a previous engagement. The report of a committee on transportation appointed at a previous meeting of the Glen Oaks Improvement association was presented by R. W. Parmele.

Five-Cent Fare

The report called for a 5-cent fare with half-fare for children, and a half-hour service. It was thought one bus would take care of all present requirements. After some time spent in discussion the following resolution was passed, after which the meeting adjourned:

"To the Honorable Mayor and City Council—We, the residents and property owners living in the districts concerned, respectfully petition that the route of the Pacific Electric bus line to East Glendale be extended to include Sinclair street to Sycamore Canyon Road, with detour of certain buses to the Glendale Sanitarium and thence on Sycamore Canyon Road to the corporation line, with occasional service on Sierra avenue to Scholl Drive."

HIGHWAY LIGHT CONCERN HAS HEADQUARTERS HERE

Corporation Gets Franchise To Place Ten Traffic Beacons At Certain Locations; Obtain Noted Inventor's Services

Glendale has been selected as the California, Washington and Oregon headquarters of the Pacific Highway Lighthouse corporation, a concern organized to sell the products of the American Gas Accumulator Co., of Elizabeth, New Jersey, which, in turn, is a subsidiary of the great international AGA corporation of Stockholm, Sweden, headed by Dr. Nils Gustaf Dalen, who, in 1912, was awarded the Nobel prize in physics for his invention of acetylene beacons and other aids to navigation.

The corporation has taken offices at 518 West Garfield avenue, in charge of W. W. Reid, secretary-treasurer, and is at present engaged in installing the ten traffic beacons recently authorized by the Glendale City Council, one of which is now operating at the corner of San Fernando and Los Feliz Roads.

Franchise by Council

The other nine locations, which have been confirmed by Virgil B. Stone, city manager, are given by Mr. Reid as follows: Wilson avenue and Broadway, San Fernando Road and Grand View avenue, Broadway and San Fernando Road, Colorado street and San Fernando Road, Glendale avenue and Verdugo Road, Colorado street and Glendale avenue, San Fernando Road and Glendale avenue, Broadway and Verdugo Road, and Brand boulevard and San Fernando Road, the latter being considered as tentative, along with the beacon now operating at San Fernando and Los Feliz Roads.

The Glendale City Council gave the Pacific Highway Lighthouse corporation a three-year franchise to operate these ten flashing lights, with the understanding that they are to cost the city nothing, Mr. Reid states, and in return for which the concern is to sell the advertising space on the same, which it has already done.

Noted as Inventor

Dr. Dalen, inventor of many contrivances enabling these and other devices of the nature to operate, is considered one of the outstanding mechanical geniuses of the age. It is a strangely dramatic fact that in achieving his world success with life-saving light, he gave up the light of his own eyes, an explosion in one of his laboratories leaving him blind.

So manifold have been the inventions of this man that they include aerial and highway lighthouses, flashing lights and warning signals, marine beacons, railroad signals, under-water acetyline cutting and welding tools, and a score of other remarkable devices, according to Mr. Reid.

Requests From Flyers

In the shop at 518 West Garfield avenue is an aviation routing beacon which was at Clover Field, Santa Monica, when the fliers took off for their world-circling flight on March 16. Mr. Reid is in receipt of a letter from Lieut. Horace S. Kenyon, Jr., A. S., commanding officer of the field, requesting that the beacon be reinstalled in time to guide the flyers as they circle down again on

BRYAN'S RECORD

In describing the two Bryan brothers, a man who has known the family intimately for years, says that William has principles but Charlie has policies. "William conceives an ideal and goes out to fight for it until the people accept it. Charlie finds out what the people want and then goes out and fights for it until they accept him as their champion." Governor Bryan is said to have the faculty of convincing voters that he is entitled to the credit for all the blessings they enjoy, including the weather, and this trait has won for him the title of "The Rainmaker."

The name of Bryan has never been associated with blushing reticence, but compared to Charles W., William J. is described in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, as uncommunicative.

According to Current Opinion, in the public record of Governor Bryan's activities, these facts seem fairly free of controversy:

"That he has persistently and successfully fought for cheaper gas, ice, coal and gasoline for the people of his city and state, and that he has materially reduced the expenses of conducting the state government.

"That he has talked about these achievements so constantly, blatantly and exaggeratedly that a minority of the people would rather pay more for these commodities than to have to listen to him.

"That he is scrupulously honest in all his private and official dealings, and that he has a sincere and passionate desire to correct what he regards as economic injustices.

"That, in battling for these causes, he always manages to advance his own political fortunes at the same time.

"That he is a capable executive of the most indefatigable energy, and so independent that the thought of anybody controlling him is preposterous.

"That his independence is carried to such length that it is impossible for anybody to work with him unless fully subscribing to his views.

"That his reputation in Nebraska and adjacent territory rests solely upon his own record, borrowing nothing from the fame of his more widely known brother. In fact, he is today an infinitely more potent and provoking factor in the political life of his part of the country than William J. Bryan is, or has been for several years."

THE SLACKER VOTE

Current Opinion does not see such a great menace to democracy in the fact that 50 per cent of the electorate of the country does not vote. This magazine thinks that many people take a superficial view of the matter when they claim that all the evils that beset the government, bloc tyranny, the low calibre of many politicians and the domination of special interests would be cured by a more general use of the franchise.

"There is no reason to believe," says Current Opinion, "that the slacker vote has a lien on high minded intelligence, and therefore, it is fantastic to think that its participation in elections would improve our political standards. The fact that a man does not care enough about politics to vote indicates that he is probably not equipped to choose wisely among issues and candidates. If, therefore, every eligible voter went to the polls, it is open to question whether the ballots would not divide up in just about the same proportions that they do now. It is true that men having an immediate selfish interest in the result make up now a larger proportion of the voting public than they would in an electorate 100 per cent efficient; but this is usually not important, because the selfish voters, like the rest of the electorate, split up into groups which largely cancel each other.

"Furthermore, in presidential elections the states with the poorest showing so far as voting efficiency goes, are the states where the decision is a foregone conclusion, and where reformers would be hard put to it to give a good reason why voters should turn out."

This argument seems sound and almost irrefutable, and yet it is difficult to believe that, with a large majority of the electors taking an interest in politics and in the elections, good would not result. It is hard to see that there is no danger in rule by the minority, even though the majority would vote much the same way. It is the fact that apathy toward elections is growing that is the most menacing feature.

In 1896 about 80 per cent of the electorate turned out to vote; in 1900, 73 per cent; in 1908, 66 per cent; in 1912, 62 per cent; and in 1920, about 49 per cent. Thoughtful people cannot help wondering where it will end.

ROYALTY INTERESTING

Another actress masquerading as a princess in Los Angeles society has been exposed. Here in democratic America one has only to possess a certain amount of cleverness to claim to be of royal blood, and get away with it. A certain class of American society is either extremely gullible or else so eager to hobnob with royalty that they accept the statements of any and every adventurer or adventuress. Credentials are not asked, perhaps, because "where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise."

One has but to announce himself as a prince or a lord or a count to be welcomed into the so-called best society with open arms, feted and entertained and financed lavishly. This same society would turn down an American of equal intellectual attainments and financial standing.

Royalty is useless, but interesting. Won't this be an unromantic old planet when we have finally seen the last of kings and princes and the lesser lights of royalty?

FEATHER IN M'DONALD'S CAP

The London conference turned out to be a feather in the cap of Premier Ramsay McDonald. Up to this time the Labor government had been doing little more than marking time and it was freely predicted that it would fail hopelessly when it came to foreign relations. But, with the success of the London conference and the signing of a commercial treaty with the Russian Soviet government, McDonald has succeeded where his predecessors failed. He is also engaged in setting a boundary between Ulster and the Irish Free State, which, if successful, will be quite an accomplishment.

Even if the Russian treaty is not ratified, the success of the London conference should be enough to recommend the Labor government and the Labor premier to the people of Britain.

FOUR ACES

Science and Crime

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Mr. Burdette G. Lewis, the Commissioner of Institutions and Agencies in New Jersey, and in charge of the prisons and hospitals of that state, declares:

"Society can wipe out a great proportion of crimes of violence, and indeed of all crimes, whenever it wants to."

His plan is to detect dangerous abnormalities in childhood and correct them. He admits, however, that criminals of certain groups are beyond cure at birth. Among these are moral imbeciles, persons who have no power of distinguishing right from wrong. Even in these cases, he contends that medical treatment given to the mothers before birth might result in the subject's coming into the world normal.

"It is chiefly through the schools, public and private," says Mr. Lewis, "that the ideal community of the future will do its work of detecting the possible trouble makers. The search will not necessarily be for 'bad boys,' so-called. The net may let them slip through its meshes as being perfectly normal boys and it may catch boys who never give the teacher a minute's worry.

"Such a net was spread recently in a state university west of the Alleghanies. The haul showed that among the under-graduates of that institution there were forty-five moral idiots. You see how little the old-fashioned pedagogical tests really tell about character and personality.

"The child ought first to be treated by the family physician, just as if he had the measles, and, if the trouble is too deeply rooted, the parents should surrender him, as a public duty, to live in an environment where he can be happy and, at the same time, not be a menace to his fellowmen.

"One group of thinkers believes that most insanity is the result of cerebral poisoning growing out of infections within the body.

"In such cases simple operations on teeth or tonsils or glands are often all that is needed to restore normality. Eighty per cent of the cases of the state hospital at Trenton of functional insanity have been cured.

"We do not let a leper contaminate the community before we isolate him, yet we keep our future slayer in our midst until he slays, then, too late, we lock him up."

Emphasis is given to these opinions of Mr. Lewis because of their bearing upon the Franks case and because of the the indications that in the future a different line of conduct will be pursued in regard to criminals.

There is a growing tendency to consider the criminal as insane, or diseased in some manner, and to isolate him nuder the care of a physician or a psychopathicist.

Today's Poem

BALLAD

In the summer even,
While yet the dew was hoar,
I went plucking purple pansies,
Till my love should come to shore.
The fishing-lights their dances
Were keeping out at sea,
And come, I sung, my true love!
Come, hasten home to me.

But the sea, it fell a-moaning,
And the white gulls rocked thereon,
And the young moon dropped from heaven,
And the lights hid one by one.
All silently their glances
Slipped down the cruel sea,
And wait! cried the night and wind and storm,—
Wait, till I come to thee!

SOMEWHAT CAREFUL

Mrs. Brown was bathing her baby when a neighbor's little girl came into the room carrying a doll. She watched the process for a few minutes and then said: "Mrs. Brown, how long have you had your baby?"

"Seven months," answered the mother.

The little girl stole another glance at her doll, which was very much the worse for wear, being minus a leg and an arm.

"My, but haven't you kept it nice!" she said with an envious sigh.

Who's Who

The recent offer received by Seymour Parker Gilbert, Jr., to become permanent agent general to supervise the operation of the Dawes reparations machinery again brings this young man into the limelight.

Three years ago, while still under 30, he was made assistant secretary of the United States treasury. The post had just been created. Gilbert became the ranking officer of the treasury, next to Secretary Mellon.

Gilbert's brilliant work with the war loan board during the world war had drawn the attention of Mellon and other financial men to him.

Gilbert was graduated from college but twelve years ago—the class of 1912 at Rutgers. The following three years he attended Harvard law school. He recently resigned the treasury post.

"Many stories are told of the democratic ways of the king of Italy and his fondness for mixing incognito with his people.

One day, when out hunting, he asked a peasant boy, who had no idea of his identity, to do him some small service, and in return offered him a share of his lunch, which consisted of a small loaf of black bread and an onion.

"No, thanks," declared the boy, with a sniff, "none of that for me. I thought you were a gentleman, but I see you are only a poor fellow like myself."

PARENTS NOT PRESENT AT DECISION

Court Believes Terms for Life Will Prove More Severe Retribution

of confinement may well be the severer form of retribution and expiation."

Defendants Seated

He then pronounced sentence, his words almost lost in the confusion of the courtroom.

The decision was read and sentence pronounced while the defendants were seated. They were not called to the bar as is customary in such cases, nor was the usual formula—"have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced against you?"—gone through with.

The entire procedure took less than ten minutes, and twenty minutes after the case was called the courtroom was devoid of the crowd which for the first time in the history of the case was permitted to stand during the official session. Today more than a score of persons—bailiffs, photographers and newspapermen—were clustered about the bench so that it was hardly possible for even the defendants to see the judge. He read rapidly and clearly, but his words were almost lost in the shuffle in the courtroom.

Parents Not Present

Loeb's father and mother were not present. Miles away, at their summer home at Charlevoix, they were awaiting word of the verdict by telephone. A doctor's order which warned them that death would surely come if they attempted to brave the strain of those few brief minutes in court kept them from their son's side.

Jacob Franks, father of little Bobby, who sat silent and forlorn throughout the long days of the trial, also was absent.

Throughout the reading, the young slayers listened with rapt attention, but without exhibiting the slightest concern. If they feared their lives would be forfeited, they did not show it, and when the life imprisonment verdict was read, they gave no outward sign of relief.

They were smiling when they entered the courtroom, and the smile was still present as they were hurried out. "Supermen" they proved themselves to be to the end.

Almost as soon as it was pronounced, word of the verdict spread to the thousands gathered in the narrow streets outside the criminal court building, but there was no demonstration.

Issues Statement

Immediately after the verdict was pronounced, State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe issued this statement:

"When the state's attorney arrested the defendants, solved what was then a mystery and, by the thoroughness of his preparation, compelled the defendants to plead guilty, presented a mountain of evidence to the court and made his argument, his duty was fully performed. He is in no measure responsible for the decision of the court. The responsibility for that decision rests with the judge alone. Like all other law-abiding citizens, when the court pronounces its decision, I must be content with it, because his decision in this case is final. While I do not intend and have no desire to criticize the decision of the court, I still believe that the death penalty is the only penalty feared by murderers."

Court Opposes Parole

In his decision Judge Caverly urged that no parole be granted.

"In the case of such atrocious crimes it is entirely within the discretion of the department of public welfare never to admit these defendants to parole. To such a policy the court urges them strictly to adhere. If this course is adhered to, the punishment of these defendants will both satisfy the ends of justice and safeguard the interests of society."

Nathan Leopold, Sr., Jacob Loeb, an uncle, and Allen Loeb, a brother, were the only members of the defendants' families who were in court when the verdict was read. At their home at Charlevoix Mr. and Mrs. Loeb heard their son's fate by long-distance telephone. Both are in such poor health that their physicians warned them that it would be almost certain death for them to attempt to stand the strain of the brief court session.

Clarence Darrow, chief of the defense counsel, also left the courtroom immediately. He had occupied a chair close to the bench and near the young slayers, but he gave them only a brief greeting when they passed by him.

Darrow Satisfied

"Of course I am satisfied with the sentence," said Darrow, whose eloquent plea is credited with blocking the state's demand for a hanging penalty for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb.

"It was the only one, considering the youth and mental condition of the boys," Darrow continued. "But they have nothing to look forward to. The life imprisonment sentence will be more of a punishment to Loeb and Leopold than the death penalty would have been."

Darrow expressed the opinion that the 99-year sentence for the kidnaping charge was imposed to block the possibility of a parole.

"I always hated capital punishment," Darrow continued. "I do not believe that it should be administered to young people. Perhaps the sentence is worse than the death penalty. There will be no appeal. We are through."

Papers Not Signed

Sheriff Hoffman's plan to have Leopold and Loeb in Joliet within an hour after Judge Caverly had pronounced sentence upon them met with delay when the judge hurried from the courtroom without signing the commitment papers necessary to the transfer from the county jail.

Whether Judge Caverly would return to the criminal building today and wait until tomorrow to sign the mittimus was not known.

Following the reading of his decision, Judge Caverly warned everybody, including newspaper men, that to follow him might mean death.

"I want no one, not even newspaper men, to follow me when I leave this courtroom. Anyone will be arrested who does so, and even more serious consequences might be the result. I shall go immediately to a loop hotel and leave town late today for a destination I do not want made public."

Full Text Of Decision In Leopold-Loeb Case

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Imprisonment for life.

Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard A. Loeb, the gay young collegians who kidnaped little Bobby Franks, bashed his head in with a cold chisel and stuffed his lifeless body into a drain pipe, today were sentenced to spend the remainder of their natural lives behind walls of the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet in expiation of that crime.

They also were sentenced to terms of ninety-nine years in the penitentiary on the kidnaping charge.

The text of Judge Caverly's decision:

"In view of the profound and unusual interest that this case has aroused, not only in this community but in the entire country and even beyond its boundaries, the court feels it his duty to state the reasons which have led him to the decision he has reached.

Plea Not Uncommon

"It is not an uncommon thing that pleas of guilty are entered in criminal cases, but, almost without exception in the past, such pleas have been the result of a virtual agreement between the defendant and the state's attorney whereby, in consideration of the pleas, the state's attorney consents to recommend to the court a sentence deemed appropriate by him, and, in the absence of special reasons to the contrary, it is the practice of the court to follow such recommendation. In the present case the situation is a different one. A plea of guilty has been entered by the defense without a previous understanding with the prosecution and without any knowledge whatever on its part. Moreover, the plea of guilty did not in this particular case, as it usually does render the task of the prosecution easier by substituting admission of guilt for a possible difficult and uncertain chain of proof. Here the state was in possession, not only of the essential, substantiating facts, but also of voluntary confessions on the part of the defendants.

Not Special Case

"The plea of guilty therefore does not make a special case in favor of the defendants. Since both of the cases, that namely of murder, and that of kidnaping for ransom, were of a character which vested the court with discretion as to the extent of the punishment, it became his duty, under the statute, to examine witnesses as to the aggravation and mitigation of the offense. This duty has been fully met. By consent of counsel for the state and for the defendants, the testimony in the murder case has been accepted as equally applicable to the case of kidnaping for ransom. In addition, a prima facie case was made out for the kidnaping case as well. The testimony introduced both by the prosecution and the defense has been as detailed and elaborate as though the case had been tried before a jury. It has been given the most publicity and the public is so familiar with all its phases that it would serve no useful purpose to re-state or analyze the evidence. By pleading guilty the defendants have admitted legal responsibility for their acts; the testimony has satisfied the court that the case is not one in which it would have been possible to set up successfully the defense of insanity, as insanity is defined and understood by the established law of this state for the purpose of the administration of criminal justice.

Value of Tests

"The court, however, feels impelled to dwell briefly on the mass of data produced as to the physical, mental and moral condition of the two defendants.

"They have been shown in essential respects to be abnormal; had they been normal they would not have committed the crime. It is beyond the province of this court, as it is beyond the capacity of human science in its present state of development, to predicate ultimate responsibility for human acts.

"At the same time, the court is willing to recognize that the careful analysis made of the life history of the defendants and of their present mental, emotional and ethical condition, has been of extreme interest and is a valuable contribution to criminology. And yet the court feels strongly that similar analysis made of other persons accused of crime, would probably reveal similar or different abnormalities. The value of such tests seems to lie in their applicability to crime and criminals in general. Since they concern the broad questions of human responsibility and legal punishment and are in no wise peculiar to these individual defendants, they may be deserving of legislative but not of judicial consideration. For this reason the court is satisfied that his judgment in the present case cannot be affected thereby.

Plan Deliberately

"The testimony in this case reveals a crime of singular atrocity. This is, in a sense, inexplicable; but it is not thereby rendered less inhuman or repulsive. It was deliberately planned and prepared for during a considerable period of time. It was executed with every feature of callousness and cruelty. And here the court will say, not for the purpose of extenuating guilt, but merely with the object of dispelling a misapprehension that appears to have found lodgment in the public mind, that he is convinced by conclusive evidence that there was no abuse offered to the body of the victim. But it did not need that element to make the crime abhorrent to every instinct of humanity, and the court is satisfied that neither in the act itself, nor in its motive or lack of motive, nor in the antecedents of the offenders, can be found any mitigating circumstances.

"For both the crimes of murder and of kidnaping for ransom, the law prescribes different punishments in the alternative.

"For the crime of murder, the state declares: 'Whoever is guilty of murder shall suffer the punishment of death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for his natural life, or for a term not less than 14 years.

Fixing Punishment

"'If the accused is found guilty by a jury, they shall fix the punishment by their verdict; upon a plea of guilty, the punishment shall be fixed by the courts.'

"For the crime of kidnaping for ransom the statute says:

"'Whoever is guilty of kidnaping for ransom shall suffer death, or be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for a term not less than five years.'

"Under the plea of guilty, the duty of determining the punishment devolves upon the court and the law indicates no rule or policy for the guidance of his discretion. In reaching his decision the court would have welcomed the counsel and support of others. In some states the legislature, in its wisdom, has provided for a bench of three judges to determine the penalty in cases such as this. Nevertheless, the court is willing to meet his responsibilities. It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extreme penalty of the law. In choosing imprisonment instead of death, the court is moved chiefly by the consideration of the age of the defendants, boys of 18 and 19 years. It is not for the court to say that he will not in any case enforce capital punishment as an alternative, but the court believes that it is within his province to decline to impose the sentence of death on persons who are not of full age.

Defends Sentence

"This determination appears to be in accordance with the progress of criminal law all over the world and with the dictates of enlightened humanity. More than that, it seems to be in accordance with the precedents hitherto observed in this state. The records of Illinois show only two cases of minors who were put to death by legal process—to which number the court does not feel inclined to make an addition.

"Life imprisonment may not, at the moment, strike the public imagination as forcibly as would death by hanging; but to the offenders, particularly of the type they are, the prolonged suffering of years of confinement may well be a severer form of retribution and expiation.

"The court feels it proper to add a final word concerning the effect of the parole law upon the punishment of these defendants. In the case of such atrocious crimes it is entirely within the discretion of the department of public welfare never to admit these defendants to parole. To such a policy the court urges them strictly to adhere.

On Two Charges

"If this course is persevered in, the punishment of these defendants will both satisfy the ends of justice and safeguard the interests of society.

"I therefore sentence you, Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for a term of ninety-nine years for the crime of kidnaping for ransom.

"And I sentence you, Richard A. Loeb, to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for ninety-nine years for the crime of kidnaping for ransom."

They will probably be released tomorrow morning. The fire, which is mainly in Fish canyon, is still out of control, he said, and gaining rapidly.

Re-election For Coolidge Third Party Not Heard Reapportionment Again Protection Against Fire

—By Gil A. Cowan—

Sweeping Republican victories in Maine and Massachusetts indicate that Calvin Coolidge will be elected to the presidency by an easy majority. The thunder of the third party is not apparent on the coast and in the east it is passing in true thunderstorm fashion.

The Democrats are making no fight in the far west, it is said, depending on the independent vote to hold the Republican lead. Tritely told it leaves the coast clear for Coolidge.

Indeed, California is so far away from the real centers of interest in national politics, such as Washington and Wall Street, New York, that it matters little other than that each individual congressional district be well represented.

The west's real power lies in congress.

Aside from the fight for the control of the state legislature next January that body is going to have reapportionment before it again. Those very people who didn't want to observe the constitution last session by voting reapportionment are going to offer an agrarian program which will place the control of this state in the hands of the farmers.

Without a doubt the agricultural districts, as a rule, send a better class of lawmakers to Sacramento than the metropolitan districts, but it is no reason that the minority of population should rule. That is un-American, to say the least.

All interests should agree on a program which will permit the assembly apportioned according to population and the senate divided among the counties. Then several of the larger counties should be divided and all arguments forever ended.

It took Colonel W. B. Greeley, chief of the United States forest service, to finally clamp the lid down on the Angeles forest reserve until it rains, because of the fire hazard.

Certainly, the resort owners cannot care now, after their business has been stunted by a systematic campaign on the part of various officials to make motoring the mountains "non grata."

Next year it is to be hoped nothing interferes with their prosperity, for the resort men are directly responsible for a large amount of Southern California's attractiveness to the tourist.

Something unusual happened at the Atlantic City beauty contest this year. Flappers were defeated by a young Philadelphia lass with golden brown curls and blue eyes who doesn't use cosmetics! She is Miss America, 1924.

Also she sings in the church choir, plays baseball and enters into hardy sports despite her demure physique. And her advice to the girls of today against smoking and drinking alone makes her worthy of the queenly crown.

Southern California is anything but a desert, as demonstrated by the past dry season. The lack of water and water power, now in the passing, proved not the serious enemy of the people. By conservation it proved an economic brake which has militated for the country's general prosperity.

Sound business, and particularly agriculture, survived most remarkably. Building continued, and, while abated in some communities, it gave them time to consider other problems. It brought about the forced development of water and power which the public had not realized was so essential.

Indeed, it was an eye-opener, and Southern California always has profited by experience.

And it may be worth boasting that Glendale has gone "straight ahead" in progress, in building, in public improvement. When the tide comes rolling in Glendale will be ready to reap the reward.

Glendale people who have bought property and built homes stand to profit handsomely. It is not yet too late to take advantage. That's all.

EARNS LIVING BY KNITTING NEEDLE

Aged Invalid Meets Expenses By Making Lace While She Is Bedridden

WASHINGTON, Pa., Sept. 10.—Earning her own living by knitting lace at the age of 97 years, although so badly crippled by paralysis that she is bedridden, is the record of Mrs. Martha Clemens, who resides at Eldersville, in the northern section of Washington county.

This aged woman is so skillful with her needles and her lace is of such a fine quality, that she is unable to supply her many patrons. She finds great satisfaction in her work and declares that life is still pleasant, in spite of her handicaps, although she has been an invalid, confined to her bed, for the past eight years. Her lower limbs are paralyzed, and she has little use of her back. Despite these disabilities, she is able to lean over in her bed on her left arm, hold the thread in her left hand and operate two needles with her right hand.

VALUE OF GERMAN MARK COSTS CREW

All Hands Leave Ship When American Labor Scale Is Made Plain

By L. C. OWEN,
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

OAKLAND, Sept. 10.—The German mark still is a sadly depreciated thing, despite the good work of Charles G. Dawes and others to make it otherwise. An American cabin boy's wages on a big German freighter just now tied up at this port has upset, at least locally, all the stabilizing effects of the new Ruhr agreements.

The steamer Lewis Hemsoth, from Bremen, pulled into Oakland with a full and contented complement of German seamen, a Teuton cabin boy and a happy skipper. Today the Hemsoth is sans Teuton cabin boy, and German crew and before the time comes for her to depart she may be sans skipper. The latter is considering whether he will tender his resignation by cable as a matter of pride—for it is not in keeping with dignity for the master of a 9000-ton freighter to receive less pay than a cabin boy.

The Teuton boy announced he was going somewhere into the interior to take an American job; that he could earn more American dollars in one day than his cabin boy job netted him in three months. Under the American shipping laws, a cabin boy hired in any American port must be paid not less than $75 a month. This, it develops, is ten times more than any German member of the crew received, three times as much as the first officer and chief engineer and even more than the skipper himself sees in his monthly pay check.

Crew Hunts Jobs

Word of the fabulous wages of the American cabin boy soon got around. The Bremen crew and the whole engineering force decided that they too wanted American dollars instead of marks. The captain could not meet their demands, so they walked off the ship in a body.

The skipper has been offered a new job as first officer of another ship which would pay him $50 a month more than he now receives in German marks. The offer is under advisement, he admits, with the probable result the Hemsoth will remain tied up at an American wharf until a new skipper, a new German crew and a new Teuton cabin boy can be sent from Bremen.

LUMBER TRADE IS AIDED BY FARMER

Needed Repairs to Buildings Being Made Since All Harvests Are In

By J. C. ROYLE

Special Correspondence of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The lumber mills of the country are raising production and are receiving an increased volume of orders. City building has slumped. Figures of the department of commerce, covering thirty-six states, indicate, however, that building in rural and urban districts together is running 10 per cent above that of September, 1923.

Lumber orders to members of the eight leading lumber manufacturing associations are nearly 30 per cent heavier than at this time last year. The destination of these shipments indicates plainly that the increased footage will go into farm repairs, replacements and new buildings. The average farm owner, it is estimated, buys over 2,000 board feet of lumber a year, or a total throughout the country of about 13 to 15,000,000,000 feet.

Use Farm Labor

Farm building and repairs will not put into circulation, however, the same amount of cash released by city building operations, since much of the labor will be done by the farmer himself and his hired help. Right now rural demand for ready-cut and framed houses which can be erected without skilled labor, is increasing tremendously. Lumber prices are firm, but they have not advanced to extraordinary levels.

The drop in rentals of some classes of dwellings in the cities has done much to check continuation of extensive construction in large centers. This tendency has been specially marked in the fairly expensive apartments. High-priced apartments renting for above $100 a month have shown little change and cheap apartments have been equally stationary, but for those between the two extremes, rents have been cut 10 to 15 per cent.

Easiness of the money market and the low rate of interest at which funds for construction purposes could be obtained, have had an effect upon the situation in the cities. An increase in interest rates would tend toward forcing a reduction in real estate values and a consequent reduction of building costs. At present, however, building costs show little change.

IDLENESS BLAMED FOR HERRIN WOES

Mines, Long Closed, Gives Opportunity for Seeking Varied Excitement

By O. L. SCOTT

Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News, Copyright, 1924

HERRIN, Ill., Sept. 10.—Closed coal mines and employment uncertainty tell the tale of Williamson county's lawless outrages of the past two years.

From the Herrin massacre of 1922 to the slayings of last Saturday and the undercurrent of most bitter hatred on every hand, here today, precluding probable new outbreaks, there is the same story—miners out of work, meetings of idlers, agitation and finally killing.

So often has this curse run through this section that the cycle is scarcely noticed. But it has placed murder in Herrin on a plane with petty larceny. Both bring only a demand for bond of $1000, perfunctorily issued, without even the night in a cell for those charged with murder in the first degree.

As a result, a pall today lies over the entire district. Herrin is a city of fear. Citizens are afraid to talk of their plight, few are willing even so much as to mention the names of the men known to be leaders in the deadly factional war that has grown from enforced idleness. Law, except as maintained by the threat of armed troops, is largely a joke. Business is dormant where formerly it prospered in this city of 10,000 inhabitants.

Many Men Idle

The reason is given over and over again by the business men of the county as idleness at the mines. Coal mining is Williamson's one real occupation. Approximately forty mines are operated in this district, with between twenty and thirty thousand miners employed in normal times. Now nearly all are closed, with thousands of men out of work. These men have been without work since last winter.

Into this situation came the Ku Klux Klan to engender feeling among a certain element of the idle. Opposition developed to Sheriff George Galligan, a Klansman was killed by the anti-Klan group and the base laid for the present feud. Local leaders, who have kept aloof from the strife of the battling factions, declare that with steady employment at the mines men would have been occupied, with money to spend and with home interests to keep them from seeking excitement in new quarters. But, instead, idling, they have been swayed by wrong influences, with killing the result.

Mines, however, are not counted to get under full blast for another year. A few started preparation for opening today, but they are not expected to run to capacity.

Sheriff Is Marked

While waiting for work to come, and keeping a weather eye out for trouble, it's a queer situation that's seen here withal. There is the surface calm of an Easter Sunday. Troops are kept indoors. The better element of the city, and it is the big element, keeps off the streets. Sheriff Galligan has retired to the quiet of the county jail at Marion, surrounded by deputies, and fearful of his life. Ora Smith, deputy sheriff, and head of the Knights of the Flaming Circle, counter organization to the Klan, is near him. Klan leaders walk the streets unconcerned. They are after Galligan and his deputy, Thomas, so the sheriff believes.

But resign? "Not for a million dollars," Sheriff Galligan told the writer today, when it was suggested that the people were saying his resignation would bring peace. "This job is prized more by me today than anything that could be offered. I was elected to it, and I am going to serve my term out," he advised. The sheriff is none too enthusiastic over his plight, and is convinced that, once troops leave, he will be the object of attack by Klansmen. Although bristling with guns and surrounded by deputies, he is none too sure that he can maintain peace in the future. In fact, he is quick to say that his turn to die is not far off. The Klansmen assert that Galligan must go if trouble is to subside.

Troops Bring Peace

The law enforcement officers in this county adore the national guard. While Adjutant General Black says that it has cost the state $102,000 already this year to maintain troops in the district, not counting the present invasion, Sheriff Galligan believes the expenditure has been a worthwhile one. He wouldn't object to having a contingent continually on the job here. The sight of the guardsmen has the effect of bringing immediate peace throughout the county.

General Black says that he sees no reason, however, for keeping any troops here for more than a few days. He is sending all but one company home today. Idleness will continue—the hatred that has developed this feud will grow—and there is every indication of future clashes as bloody as any in the past when again military protection is withdrawn.

As matters now stand, Williamson county is without a solution for its troubles. General Black, after making his third survey of the year, says that he is still open to suggestions for means of pacifying rival local clans.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

"Oh, there's not much fun in those crazy crowds," Dora complained, languidly, lifting her little form, in its pale pink and blue ruffles, from the bed. I'll see how Craig feels."

Hilary stopped in the drawing room for her music, passed Craig in the hall with an artless pause for admiration, and went joyfully on her way. The night was moonless, soft and warm, and the close low dome of the sky throbbed with winter stars. Her car slipped and bumped upon the thawing slush of the streets; the chauffeur's hands looked like a bear's paws on the wheel.

It was delicious, after percolating through the enormous bare odorous halls of what had once been a schoolhouse, and climbing the cold iron stairs, to open the door of the Alexandrowskis' studio and find herself in a tableau of rich color, warmth, and fragrance.

The immense square room, high-ceiled and faced on the north by immense windows, was full of touches of Russian color: rich oriental rugs, fretted brasses, tall enamel candlesticks, ikons in gold and red and blue. On the grand piano, and spread like a tapestry on the wall, were the stiff garments of priests, touched with the flaming red that shines like enamel, or like flayed flesh.

Madame Alexandrowska, swimming forward magnificently to embrace Hilary, wore over her old black satin a wrap of the same splendor; behind her Hilary saw a great fire blazing, with two or three forms silhouetted against it. Etelka junior, the orphan granddaughter, who was called Kasha in the family circle, was in evidence tonight for the first time at a formal affair, and was aflame with excitement. She was a big, gawky girl, with passionate dark eyes, somewhat given, as Hilary knew, to socialistic discussions with pale, anemic youths, and to the defense of free love. But she was always shy and sweet and young with Hilary, whom she adored.

"And here is my beautiful musician!" exclaimed Madame, "and the music. She knows she will be sent home and to bed, like the bad child, if she does not bring him!"

She introduced Hilary enthusiastically to several dark, serious-looking men, and one or two eager, hungry-looking women in odd, home-made garments, with quick speech and slightly foreign mannerisms. Hilary, clinging to old Von Mandescheid's affectionate hand while she bowed and pored forth greetings in three languages, realized perfectly that tomorrow—or perhaps even in the course of the conversation tonight—she would learn that one of these men was a teacher of history in a public school, that this pale boy worked in Wanamaker's packing department, and wandered about through the old bookstores near Astor Place at noontime, chewing upon a herring sandwich, and that the blonde woman with the red-rimmed eyes was a retired dancer who drilled choruses for some musical show.

But she liked the Alexandrowskis' mixed acquaintance; the talk was fiery, inspired, and free, if the costumes were slightly unconventional, and she always felt more than ordinarily like taking her share in it, like contradicting, protesting, denying, and interrupting as sponstaneously as the worst of them.

Etelka always began her dinners, however they might end, with a certain dignity, convention and lavish display. The table was always most carefully laid, even though a predominance of small dishes and bowls of flowers, nuts, ferns, candies, pickles, little cakes, and syrupy condiments usually spoiled, for Hilary, the general effect.

But there was great confusion over the correct seating, with Madame physically dragging husbands away from wives, and shouting protests when anybody sat down. This had all been arranged; it must be so, and so. And when they were finally seated, there must be a solemn toast to the company.

Vanni, the grizzled little red-eyed blond husband, watched and admired his wife meekly. She stirred him, thrilled him, inspired him now, in her homely, gray, clumsy fifties, as she had done forty years before, when she danced in red boots at a Muscovite street fair. The mere body, for them both, in their relationship, had long ago vanished in some subtler counterpart; some spiritual substitute that made her still a laughing, sturdy, red-cheeked girl of sixteen when he kissed her, that made him as much a part of her life as her children were. Madame Alexandrowska had been a grandmother at forty-two; she had borne sons and daughters, and stood beside their graves, and given to the world brides, and young husbands, labor, service, love. And she had laughed, danced, raged, sung and shouted, dug in the earth, hewed down great trees, cooked and sewed, smiled at the sight of the snuffling babies laid beside her, and torn her hair while she knelt beside the child that would breathe no more.

Hilary, watching her tonight, felt that Etelka Alexandrowska knew what love was, when all that lifeless little bloodless Violet could ever know was vanity and animal desire!

She was at the piano, a song was just over, and it was eleven o'clock, when Kronski came in. The room was well filled now, every divan had its murmuring and argumentative group; tea was being passed, and strange Russian refreshments.

Kronski looked somewhat rumpled, weary and irritable. Hilary got no nod from him, and watched him curiously for a few minutes with speculative eyes. He was in a bad mood; something had tired him unusually; the prospect of music, she thought, was not bright. And he had not brought his violin, either, although he was quite capable, she knew, of having left it in the motor-car, just to be annoying.

THE GATEWAY

That is little Dawn o'Day who has more than a year in pictures to her credit and has the important part of Dot in "The Man Who Fights Alone."

This screen play is the first starring vehicle for William Farnum under the Paramount banner. It was produced by Wallace Worsley.

Although of the "he-man" type of play which has made Farnum famous, it is unique in its artistry, according to Director Worsley, and in the unexpected psychological twists in the drama. The action calls for the presence of a little girl like Dawn o'Day, and her part in the play is a heavy one for her tender years. Around her revolves the entire theme of the plot. She appeared recently as the little prince of Spain in the "Spanish Dancer."

"The Man Who Fights Alone," with Lois Wilson and Edward Horton featured in support of the star, is coming to the Gateway theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week.

MAHURIN PLAYERS

"Not So Fast" gains speed every night at the tent theatre of Mahurin's Players (Murphy's Comedians), Central avenue and Stocker street, Casa Verdugo.

Last night witnessed one of the biggest crowds the company has yet gathered, inasmuch as it was a state holiday, and tonight hundreds who tried to go last night and were turned away are expected to attend the show.

J. A. Menard, manager of the company, advises patrons to come early if they want to get front seats. Or they may buy their tickets in advance at J. J. Schulte's drug store, 251 North Brand boulevard. The curtain rises each night at 8 o'clock sharp.

THE GLENDALE

Georgia Tobacco Crop Practically Marketed

ATLANTA, Sept. 10.—Most of the Southern Georgia tobacco markets will close this week, although three or four will remain open to care for the late crop. Active preparations for next year are in progress. Several hundred growers from the Carolinas have bought holdings in the Georgia bright leaf belt. Practically all agricultural indebtedness has been liquidated in the southern part of the state.

Cleveland Plants to Increase Production

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—Nearly 25 per cent of the large industrial plants here will increase their working forces this month, according to a survey of the labor committee of the chamber of commerce. Total employment in August decreased 1¼ per cent from the July figures, although automobile plants increased their forces nearly 5 per cent and metal products other than steel added 6½ per cent to their payrolls.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE SUN FLOWER

At the far end of Uncle Wiggily's garden grew some sun flowers. Very tall they were, with big, round shining faces, as cheerful as the sun.

Each flower nodded its head on the stalk, which was almost as tall as the bean stalk that Jack, the Giant Killer, climbed. In the center of each flower was a brown circle of many seeds—hundreds of seeds. Around the cluster of seeds were yellow golden petals.

"I don't see why you bothered to plant so many sun flowers," said Uncle Wiggily to Nurse Jane one day. "What good are they?"

"They are pretty to look at," answered the muskrat lady housekeeper, "and they make me feel cheerful on dark and gloomy days when it rains and the sun doesn't shine."

"Well, in that case, the flowers do good," laughed the bunny uncle. "But are they good to eat?"

"Not especially for you," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy, "but Mrs. Cluck Cluck, the hen lady, is very fond of the seeds. When they are ripe I am going to give her some. Charlie and Arabella Chick, the little rooster and hen, also like the seeds. And, I may save some to roast this winter, as my cousin who lives in China does."

"Say no more!" laughed Mr. Longears. "I see that the sun flowers are much more useful than I thought. They are welcome to stay in my garden."

The time was soon to come, as they say in story books, when Uncle Wiggily was to be more glad than ever that he had sun flowers in his garden. This is how it happened.

He had been out in the woods and fields, looking for an adventure, but he had found none. All the adventures seemed to be on their vacations that afternoon.

"Well, I had better hop home and get Nurse Jane to make me a lettuce sandwich," said Uncle Wiggily, speaking out loud to himself, as he often did. And, no sooner had he spoken than a voice behind him cried:

"Well, I am going to make myself a sandwich of ear nibbles and I'll take you home with me to do it!"

Uncle Wiggily looked around and saw the Bob Cat glaring at him from a tangle of weeds.

"Oh, you bad chap!" cried the bunny, and, quickly gathering his legs under him, the rabbit hopped toward his hollow stump bungalow as fast as he could hop.

The Bob Cat came after him, and, taking a short cut home across the lots, Uncle Wiggily hopped through a hole in his fence and into the end of his garden, where grew the tall, heavy sun flowers.

"You are very useful for some things, but are you any good to stop a Bob Cat from chasing me?" cried Mr. Longears, for the bad chap was chasing the bunny.

And then, all of a sudden, Uncle Wiggily thought of a trick. He hid himself near a sun flower stalk. And, when the Bob Cat leaped through a hole in the fence, the bunny gnawed with his sharp teeth one of the stalks. Down fell the big, heavy sun flower, plopping the Bob Cat on the head with a hard blow. The dried seeds scattered all about, their sharp points scratching the eyes of the Bob Cat.

"Oh, Yow! Yow! What's this?" howled the bad chap. "Who hit me? Who is throwing pebbles at me?" for he thought the seeds were pebbles.

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily as he hopped safely into his bungalow and locked the door, while the Bob Cat, dazed and dizzy from the blow on his head, crawled away. "Ha! Ha! Sun flowers are good to stop bad Bob Cats from chasing rabbits." And Nurse Jane also laughed when she heard what had happened.

And if the jelly doesn't run out from between the layers of cake and go to play in the salt cellar with the egg beater, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the tumble bug.

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

SCURVY, UNDERWEIGHT 'N' EVERYTHING

Here's a remarkable letter. It shows that attention to diet does bring results in gaining weight and maintaining health. In the writer's case, it certainly refutes the idea that she could get too much water. (I didn't specify the exact amount for her to take.)

Dear Dr. Peters:—I wish to thank you for the wonderfully good work you did for me. I wrote you last November, 1923, for articles on Balanced Diet, Acidosis and Common Colds, which I received. I am 57 years of age and I told you then what a rundown condition I was in and had been for five or ten years previous. I weighed 112. I now weigh 130, which is my normal weight.

"I stopped eating bread and ate potatoes in its place. I increased my white meat, vegetables, milk, fruit and nuts. I drank twelve glasses of lemonade a day. All pus has stopped coming from the bladder and all my teeth that were loose are firm and my bleeding gums are now fine and solid. They do not bleed at all. I had a cold but once this winter, which is something unusual for me, for I generally have one cold after the other.

"You are doing such splendid work for all classes who do not know how to eat, how to live, that all I can say is: May God bless you and keep you 'ong in the land of the living, so that you may hold out the lamp of hope to old folks like myself, who think that because we are old we must give up and die. But you, dear doctor, bring hope every day in our paper. Again I thank you—Mrs. M. A. S."

It was lovely of you, Mrs. S., to let me know that you have got along so well. Your drinking twelve glasses of lemonade each day is unusual, but you evidently benefited by it. Will you please let me know how much sugar and how much lemon juice you use in making your lemonade? You undoubtedly got considerable food value in it. Your symptoms, the bleeding gums, etc., indicate that you had scurvy—and your correct diet has cured it.

You aren't old! I have just commented upon a letter from a man of 84, who is still young and spry, and, compared to him, you are a summer duckling.

KNOCK KNEES NORMAL

E. W.—No, after growth, there is nothing that can be done for knock-knees except a surgical operation. If yours are as severe as you say, you must have had rickets when you were a child. It is normal for women to be slightly knock-kneed on account of the conformation of the pelvis.

Mrs. S. E.—I believe if you reduce your weight, relieve your constipation, most of the symptoms you are experiencing in your change of life will disappear. Send for our booklet on reducing. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10 cents in stamps.

BLOOD PRESSURE

The blood pressure is subject to variation under different conditions and one estimation of blood pressure cannot be depended upon wholly. The smoking of one cigarette, for instance, in the case of a physician, was shown to raise the pressure 30 degrees. One of the larger insurance companies states that of all the causes for high blood pressure, overweight is the only consistent cause. Hundreds of our followers write that their blood pressures have been reduced to normal after they reduced. We have an article on blood pressure which you may have by sending the usual self-addressed, stamped envelope, with your request. Don't forget that.

Mrs. B.—The subject you wish discussed will appear. Watch the column.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

To Can Quinces—Remove skins and cores. Cut into convenient slices and place these pieces in a cheesecloth bag. Lower the bag into boiling water and leave for six minutes (quinces are so hard that they must be "blanched" in this way for a longer time than other fruits.) At the end of the six minutes plunge the bag into cold water for an instant. Now pack into hot, sterilized glass jars and cover with the following Thin Sirup: Stir three pounds of granulated sugar into one quart of hot water and let boil only long enough to dissolve the sugar. (This is not supposed to be a sticky sirup.) Partially seal the jars by putting top wire up over caps but not pressing down side wires. Stand the jars on a rack or folded cloth in your washboiler canner in boiling water which reaches almost to jar-tops. After the water begins to boil again take account of time. Only allow the water to boil around the jars for 40 minutes. Remove from canner, completely seal, instore. (Note: In canning quinces, apples or pears it is best to drop the fruit-quarters into salty water when you remove the skin and cores as you prepare them for canning. This keeps the fruit from turning brown. Use salt in proportion of one tablespoon to one gallon of water).

Quince Preserves — Pare and quarter 15 large, ripe quinces. Also pare and quarter one peck of sweet apples. Place the fruit in a preserving kettle in alternate layers with ten cups of granulated sugar. Add two cups of cold water and let stand overnight. In the morning place the kettle on the fire and let cook till the fruit is very tender and the sirup clear. Put in hot, sterilized glass jars and seal.

Quince Jelly—Take parings and cores left from quince preserves and measure. Add the same proportion in whole quinces cut small without paring or removing seeds (for, although the seeds tend to darken the jelly, they are necessary because they contain much of the pectin which makes jelly congeal.) Simmer for about three hours. Add more boiling water as the sirupy liquid in the preserving kettle evaporates (that is, add enough to keep the fruit from adhering to the kettle-bottom and burning). When reduced to a soft pulp turn the fruit into a jelly bag and let drip overnight. In the morning measure the strained juice. Set aside the same quantity of sugar and boil the juice for 20 minutes before adding the sugar. Cook for ten minutes and seal in sterilized jars.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Housekeeping" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.—The Editor.

CLINGING SLEEVES

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Sleeves cling pretty snuggily to the wrist and forearm in many new models. A favorite finish to the sleeve of the tailored frock at present is two buttons and two hand-made buttonholes at the wrist, but no cuff.

With an air of youth the Pirouette makes its confident debut—an I. Miller slipper of graceful lines and slender ankle-strap that will dance its way into the feminine fancy.

After luncheon Miss Myers, who is regent of the chapter, presided over a board meeting.

There were present Mesdames C. W. Houston, S. C. Leppelman, Mabel Franklin Ocker, W. G. Lyman, W. A. Sayler, E. W. W. Hayward, E. M. Kennedy, Misses Hazel White and Myers.

P.-T. A. Plans

Members of the executive board and committee chairmen of the Grand View Parent-Teacher association were entertained yesterday afternoon at the home of the newly elected president, Mrs. John B. Ogle, 1062 Raymond avenue.

The meeting was called by the president for the purpose of discussing several matters of importance concerning the new year's work. At this time it was decided the membership chairman, Mrs. Morgan, together with the courtesy chairman, Mrs. Howard B. Morss or one of their committee be present on enrollment day at the school to welcome new mothers and to interest them in the P.-T. A. work.

The best ways to start the membership drive were discussed. The favorite method is through cooperation of pupils. In connection with this plan a sum of money was appropriated for the purchase of a gift for the child securing the largest number of members as well as a gift for the room securing the largest percentage of mothers as members.

Announcement was made pertaining to the executive board meeting of the Glendale Federation to be held on Thursday, September 11, at 2:15 o'clock in the hall located at 323 North Brand boulevard. All board members of the Grand View P.-T. A. are urged to be in attendance.

The first regular meeting of the association will be held Tuesday, September 23, at 3 o'clock at the Grand View school. An executive board meeting will convene at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Trowbridge, finance chairman, asked for suggestions for replenishing the treasury and several clever ways were discussed.

In order that all mothers may attend the regular P.-T. A meetings a provision will be made for the care of small children that would otherwise keep some of the mothers away.

CITY AWAITS BIDS ON SEWER BONDS

Council to Receive Offers On Issue of $652,000 Thursday Morning

Bids on the first issue of $652,000 of the $1,600,000 sewer bonds voted January 8, 1924, will be opened and read before the Glendale City Council at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, when the successful bidder, if any, will be announced, in accordance with the notice of sale ordered to be posted by the city clerk at the council meeting of August 26.

In addition to advertising these bonds for sale as required by law, there have been mailed out approximately fifty notices of sale and bond statements, according to Ray L. Morrow, city attorney, those going east of Omaha, Neb., being dispatched via air mail, to assure their prompt delivery and afford eastern buyers an opportunity to bid on the issue.

Balance to Be Held

At the election of January 8, the $1,600,000 issue of sewer bonds was approved by a vote of 5629 votes for to 535 votes against, the official records of the city show. There were 12,204 registered voters at that time.

The balance of $948,000 will be issued as funds are needed to carry on the work of constructing the sewer, Mr. Morrow states, thus saving the city thousands of dollars in interest.

The $652,000 issue now up for sale consists of forty bonds of the first maturity, maturing March 1, 1925, and seventeen bonds of each succeeding maturity, for thirty-six years, the last seventeen bonds of the issue maturing March 1, 1961.

Capacity Remaining

Each bond is of $1000 denomination, bearing interest at 5 per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and exempt from all federal and state taxes.

After the issuance of these $652,000 worth of sewer bonds, there will still remain to the city an unimpaired bonding capacity of $5,436,453.25, according to Mr. Morrow, based on the assessed valuation of $47,061,355, recently announced by the Los Angeles board of supervisors, the total indebtedness of the city now standing at $1,622,750. The bonding capacity of a city is estimated as 15 per cent of the assessed valuation.

Confirms Report of Power Ban Removal

The reason for the recent let-up in light and power supervision, allowing electric signs and night advertising to revert to their original schedules, is assigned by Peter Diederich, superintendent of plant and production, to the removal of all drought menace, by the large number of steam plants now being operated by the Southern California Edison company.

PROTEST UPHELD, MUST PLAY AGAIN

Managers' Association Rule Umpire Erred In Sox-Inglewood Game

Inglewood has NOT won the semipro title of Southern California—yet!

This startling bit of information comes from the headquarters of the Southern California Baseball Managers' association, in the announcement that the protest made by Boss Sawyer of the White Sox regarding the game played here a week ago Sunday with Inglewood, was upheld without a dissenting vote.

The members of the association ruled that Umpire Dave Brain, working the third base line, had erred when he sent Hirigoyen back to third base in the opening stanza after Brain had been hit by a thrown ball. The action of Brain caused the game to run into the extra-stanza style, fourteen innings being played before Inglewood slipped over a couple of runs to win.

Both teams were ordered to play the game over again next Sunday in Glendale, which means that, if the White Sox succeed in breaking the winning streak of the leaders in the Bay District league, Glendale still has a chance to cop the semipro title.

Just What Happened

Here is just what happened in the game played a week ago Sunday and which led to the protest. Leischner was umpire-in-chief, and working at the plate. Kibby was working the first base line, and Brain was working the third base line. Haycox was in the box for Inglewood and File was catching.

Young was the first man up for Glendale. He drove a long fly to center, which was gathered in by Stanley. Hirigoyen hit to center, and Stanley dropped an easy catch, Hirigoyen making second. Dorman hit through Palmer, shortstop, and was safe on Palmer's error, Hirigoyen starting for third. Palmer, after recovering the ball, attempted to catch Hirigoyen at third by a throw to McMullin. He overthrew the base, the ball hitting Brain, who was standing near the coaching box watching the play and ready to make his decision.

When the overthrow was made, Hirigoyen started for home plate on the trot, realizing that he was entitled to a base. He had tagged the rubber when he was called back by Brain, and died there when Shields and Shellenbach each hit to Haycox and were thrown out at first.

BERT WHIPS SAGE, DRAW FOR ADAMS

Two Great Battles Staged at Vernon Last Night on Big Double Bill

The fight fans to the number of 10,000, who were fortunate enough to get inside of Jack Doyle's Vernon arena last night, saw two great fights when Bert Colima gave Bob Sage, Detroit lawyer, a real lacing, and Phil Salvadore battled Johnny Adams, Pacific coast lightweight champion, to a draw. The double bill attracted hundreds who could not squeeze into the arena.

Sage went down three times in the opening round of his fight with Colima, and Bert took the three remaining rounds easily. Colima used a large assortment of body and head punches, spilling Sage once for a nine count with a right behind the ear, and again with a right to the head. Sage fought back, but proved no match for the skill and rushing tactics of the Whittier Flash.

Phil Salvadore and Johnny Adams staged another great fight when they met in a titular contest. Adams came close to losing the Pacific coast light-weight crown, which he won at Hollywood, when Salvadore carried the fight to him in the first two rounds. Adams hung on to his crown only by virtue of a whirlwind finish in the last round, and smashing rights and lefts in the third round when it was a case of fight or lose the title.

Stockyards Jack Rose lost the decision to Johnny Reno. Joe Firpo was given a first-class beating by Bob Bridges in the opening battle. Paul Hardy was given the decision over Jimmy Roberts. Pedro Villa, substitute for Young Bellamy, knocked out Louis Martin in the third. Eddie Sylvester won over Young Papke.

Big Game Huntress In Favor of Bobbed Hair

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 10.—Bobbed hair and big game are apparently as far apart as the poles; but in the belief of Mrs. W. J. Morden, of Chicago, success in hunting the latter, if one is a woman, follows well on the work of the barber's scissors.

"If you want a successful hunting trip get your hair bobbed first," Mrs. Morden advised femininity in general, as she displayed her shorn tresses. "I did before I left Chicago, and I've never regretted it. When one breaks away from civilization and enters the wilds for months at a time such things as a lack of bothersome hair are more important than they would seem."

Mrs. Morden accompanied her husband on a trip around the world, during which they hunted for several months in both Africa and India and hundreds of trophies are now en route to Chicago as evidence of their skill.

TWIN BILL LOST BY SEALS TO L. A.

Doc Crandall Gets Opening Game, 7-1; Root Wins In Second, 4 to 0

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 10.—The league-leading Seals were victims of the pleasant surprise party in their opening holiday game with the Angels. In the first encounter Doc Crandall led the sassy San Franciscans down and out 7 to 1. And that was not enough. Charley Root took them through the next nine innings to a shut out, while the Angels scored 4.

More than 9,000 fans enjoyed the national pastime in Southern California of hooting San Francisco and entirely forgetting the admonition about "hands across the state." Williams and Crockett were the Angels' victims in the opener while Shea suffered the second defeat.

The only real excitement other than the pitching performances was Umpire Ed Phinney taking Rhyne's remarks so seriously in the early afternoon that he ordered the San Francisco short stop to report to the showers. At the same time McAuley, playing short for the Angels, was winning plaudits for his stellar performance in blocking Seal bingles.

Salt Lake nosed out Sacramento in the Utah town, 9 to 8. Five errors wrecked the Senator's chances in a loose game.

Seattle got a needed run in the ninth inning and defeated the Portland Ducks 7 to 6, Portland having a two-run lead in the eighth frame.

Oakland won 8 to 5 in the opener of a double bill with Vernon in the bay city and the second tilt was taken by Oakland, score 5 to 3.

QUESTION—What is a shoestring catch?

ANSWER—A shoestring catch is a catch of a fly ball when the fielder is leaning forward full length and manages to get the ball just before it strikes the ground.

QUESTION—If the second baseman crosses the runner's path with the ball in his hand and then throws to first is it a double play?

ANSWER—No. A runner never is out if the fielder crosses the base path only. The runner must either be touched or the ball must be thrown to the base in advance of the runner.

QUESTION—What is the duty of a manager and what is the duty of a captain?

ANSWER—Only recently a series was published defining the duties of captain and manager. Would gladly give information but it cannot be condensed to fit the space in these questions.

QUESTION—Runner is on first base. Batter hits a pop fly. It goes to centerfield and falls safe. Runner fearing a double play goes back to first. Centerfielder picks up the ball and throws the runner out at second. Does the batter get credit for a hit? If not, why not?

ANSWER—The batter does not get credit for a hit because the runner was forced out. Batter never gets credit for a hit on a force out.

QUESTION—In major league baseball runner is on first. Pitcher throws ball to first in an attempt to catch runner. Ball goes wild. Runner goes to third. A says runner is allowed to take only one base. Who is right?

ANSWER—The runner may go as far as he can on such an error unless there is a ground rule to the contrary. There is no rule in baseball against it.

QUESTION—Who is the leading pitcher of the National and American Leagues respectively as to your opinion?

ANSWER—It is not a very good time to give opinions as to the merits of pitchers. The best plan is to see what they have done at the end of the season.

QUESTION—What ails Luque, leading pitcher of the Cincinnatis this year? Would you judge it his fault or that of the club that he is defeated?

ANSWER—A pitcher must make his own reputation. This is not the first time that Luque has had a bad season.

Win Public Mirrors To Fix Stray Hairs

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Because women passengers crossing on the ferry between Southampton and the Isle of Wight complain that the wind during the crossing disarranges their hair and makes them unpresentable on landing, the Town Council of Yarmouth, Isle of Wight, have decided to place mirrors in suitable places on the landing stage.

Members of the council agreed that it was a necessity, but hoped that the women would bring their own combs.

New Coach for Frosh Team at Occidental

The whipping into shape of the Occidental freshmen squad this year will be in the hands of Dewey Lyle. Lyle is a former St. Thomas college star, and has also gained quite a reputation as a professional football player.

The addition of Lyle to the coaching staff of the Orange and Black institution should be a great asset, and ought to prove a big help in building up freshmen for the varsity next season.

PIRATES BEATEN TWICE BY REDS

Pittsburgh Is Three Games Behind Giants; Yankees And Tigers Gain

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Pittsburgh, now three full games behind the Giants in the National league pennant race, appeared today to be slipping.

Following their double defeat at the hands of the Reds, the Pirates dropped another twin bill to the Cardinals yesterday. New York and Brooklyn were idle.

The Yankees and Tigers gained half a game on the league leading Senators, who did not play.

The Yankees made hay while the sun was not shining for Washington, and gained half a game on the Senators by nosing out the Red Sox in the ninth, 5 to 4.

A loud explosion was heard in St. Louis as the Pirates flivvered sadly, the Cardinals taking two games, 7 to 4 and 6 to 4.

The Tigers stretched their winning streak to seven by trimming the White Sox, 7 to 3.

The Cubs crawled a game closer to the first division, defeating the Reds, 5 to 4, on O'Farrell's homer.

MAY REVIEW AUTO RACES AT BEACH

Speed Tests at Daytona In Fall and Winter Loom As City Expands

DAYTONA, Fla., Sept. 9.—Following the announcement that John D. Rockefeller, Ja., is to establish a winter home here, along with his famous father, John D., Sr., and simultaneously with the announcement that a motion picture studio, Sun City, is to be located across Halifax river, a movement now is on foot to further place this city in the spotlight of public interest by restoring the record-establishing Ormond-Daytona Beach auto course to its former glory.

A program for "big time" races is being arranged for the late fall and winter months, with leading racing men supporting the movement.

To the Ormond-Daytona Beach course belongs a majority of the world's straightaway records, including that of "Big" Houghdahl, who recently declared that this is the only beach on which present-day straightaway records can be made safely.

With the resumption of racing on the course, which is pronounced in excellent condition, it is anticipated that many records will fall.

By scheduling the races in the late fall and winter, it is hoped to further carry out the program of converting this locality into an all-year-around resort.

10 Reasons

Why Glendale Should Undertake a Y. M. C. A. Building Campaign

—There is no other organization adapted by experience, resources or program to do the work the modern Y. M. C. A. is doing in all of our American cities. The ideals and results of the Association are not duplicated by any other agency. The work to be done in Glendale with an adequate plant will not otherwise be done. Without such a building the city is minus an essential factor in constructive forces.

2.—

—There is recognized need for just what this building will supply in Glendale. A place for the boys—under competent Christian supervision—where they will receive training for useful citizenship; a place for young men where they may spend their leisure helpfully in activities which make for self-improvement; a place for business men where they may obtain social and physical recreation, meet business associates and find the right kind of young men for their employ.

3.—

—The growth of Glendale is in part due to accessions of young men and boys who come to the city. The Y. M. C. A. building will provide dormitories for these young men away from home plus an environment and other privileges of practical helpfulness in properly assimilating them into our community life.

4.—

—If 300 boys are reached by non-equipment work through the District Y. M. C. A. program and 2000 boys and young men could be reached and helped with a modern plant—don't the citizens owe it to THE OTHER SEVENTEEN HUNDRED to make it possible for them to have the advantages of the "Y"?

5.—

—The civic religious interests demand it. Young men are the greatest asset of a community. The boys of today are the men of tomorrow—the heads of homes, of business enterprises, of political expression, of civic movements, of moral interests, of religious organizations. Investment in young manhood guarantees civic stability and safe leadership in community affairs. IT IS A CIVIC-PATRIOTIC OBLIGATION.

6.—

—The strategic importance of Glendale as a recognized growing residence and business center with persons coming here from all parts of the country, make it desirable from the standpoint of civic pride and city leadership that Glendale have a Y. M. C. A. building of impressive appearance and work of convincing magnitude and efficiency. They have them in other cities—why not in Glendale? IT IS A QUESTION OF COMMUNITY PRIDE.

7.—

—The business growth and prosperity of Glendale and the surrounding territory are substantial and full of encouragement. Subscriptions made now will be paid during the returning tide of bigger and better business. Glendale can well afford to build a home for Y. M. C. A. work and it will be the finest kind of city advertising. Failure at this time will be a civic misfortune.

8.—

—Money given to the Y. M. C. A. building fund is not money taken from the community and put out of circulation. Instead stagnant money is going to be discovered and put into circulation. The dollars subscribed to the Y. M. C. A. are going to get busy, pay bills, buy building material and merchandise, give employment and help to accelerate business generally. The money stays right in the community working a blessing to the men and boys served and adding health to business. $275,000 subscribed NOW to erect a Y. M. C. A. building will prove to be a real business tonic in Glendale.

9.—

—Success in the Y. M. C. A. effort will mean other forward movements will be projected and financed, thus further stimulating business and civic advance. The consciousness of community ability to do big things will give confidence and courage to tackle and put over other worth while projects. The by-products of a successful Y. M. C. A. campaign will be worth far more than $275,000 to Glendale.

10.—

—Glendale at present is behind other cities of similar population in the United States and Canada. There are not a half dozen cities in the entire country and not another one in California of 50,000 population without provision for the work of the Y. M. C. A. City prestige demands action at once.

"One project at a time brought to successful conclusion should be the aim of every city seeking expansion."

A cleaver was used to open the ostrich egg, which was large enough for Mr. Hodgins and a breakfast party of five friends.

Funds to Pay Stock Losses Raised In L. A.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 10.—Los Angeles banks have raised $800,000, and San Joaquin valley banks have contributed $600,000 toward payment of losses sustained by stockmen by the slaughter of livestock infected with foot and mouth disease in their respective localities, according to G. H. Hecke, chief of the state department of agriculture, who has just returned from a visit to the affected counties.

This money is advanced to the state for re-imbursement to stockmen and will be returned to the banks from the state treasury.

WANTED

Man or woman with $2500 cash or good collateral to aid in the financing and expansion of a Glendale manufacturing and merchandising business which commenced operations three months ago with one man and today employs 11 people.

This concern has grown rapidly and on a sound foundation, without finance, ostentatious advertising, expensive displays, or hot air, having confined itself strictly to new, but fundamentally and economically sound ideas, good goods, service and hard work, and as a result, in spite of quiet conditions, is enjoying a rapidly expanding business, plus a continual repeat order trade, and is now preparing to cover the entire coast and inland towns. Through the medium of this advertisement some intelligent person is going to secure an interest in the early stages of what will shortly become a business of great magnitude and wealthy independence. PRINCE PLAYING POKER, IS RUMOR

Nocturnal Absences of Heir To Throne Lend Color To Suppositions

By ROBERT T. SMALL
Special correspondent of The Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Several mysterious nocturnal absences on the part of the Prince of Wales lately, have led to the suspicion in some of our best Long Island circles, that the young heir to the British throne may have been studying surreptiously, the American view of the relative importance of kings and queens—to say nothing of jacks and ten spots.

The Prince may have felt that it would be just as well for him to know how a king stands in what may be called a pure democracy. If so, he must be convinced by this time that a lone king does not amount to much unless he happens to partake of the nature of a royal flush, or unless he chances to help make things "straight." Most Americans prefer their kings in pairs or trios. Some have been known to welcome them most heartily when, like angels' visits, they have arrived four at a time.

It is reliably reported that poker is not an entire stranger to the western provinces of Canada, where lies the prince's own wild western ranch. Perhaps the prince had a touch of poker during his last visit to the ranch. Perhaps that was why he wanted to polish up a bit on his game here in the east before going back to the ranch.

Will Sell Ponies

Most Englishmen have good poker faces. The prince has not. He is quick to show excitement, either pleasurable or annoying, and looks for all the world as if he would be an easy mark at our national indoor game. So if the "boys" have sought a few pounds and pence from the royal visitor via the old round-table they probably have got them.

Speaking of souvenirs there is to be a princely chance to get one when David Warfield's polo ponies are auctioned off at the end of the month. Nine ponies were brought over for the prince to use during his two weeks on Long Island and the prince's ponies represent an investment of nearly $20,000.

The Prince, by the way, is having his last fling at polo, for some time to come. The playing season will be over when he returns to England and next year the young globe trotter is going on another tour of the world. Therefore, although he does not need the money, he has determined to sell his ponies rather than ship them back to the old country and keep them in idleness for another year and a half.

TRAVEL IS LIGHT

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 10.—Hotel men and passenger agents of New England roads report that the summer resort season has been below the average. Automobile traffic, pilgrimages to Quebec and the heavy movement of tourists to Europe are held lragely responsible.

A new species of spider with eight long legs, pink and striped with black, has made its appearance in Colorado.

WOMEN MAKE OWN HATS

girls! How do you think the girls! How do you think the women of the home department of the farm bureau enjoyed their holiday here Tuesday? The sessions were held in the sewing room of the high school and very largely attended, by the way.

SIX HERONS RESIDENTS

PLAN TOUR OF HARBOR

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 10.—One of the big events of the national convention of Builders' Exchanges to be held in Los Angeles next February will be a tour of the harbor, and the San Pedro Builders' Exchange has been asked to make special arrangements for the trip.

GUARANTORS FACING SUITS

SANTA ANA, Sept. 10.—Forty local guarantors of the Ellison-White Chautauqua, which was canceled here last May because of an ordinance prohibiting the use of a tent during the foot and mouth disease epidemic now face civil suits of $43 each.

THIEF "GASSES" CHICKENS

SANTA ANA, Sept. 10.—Chicken thieves at the Charles Heinrich poultry farm here resorted to "gassing" 225 members of the feathered tribe in order to silence their squawks during the theft, Patrolman J. M. Smith reports. Cyanide fumes were used. Others are not advised to use the gas as it is deadly poison.

RESCUED BY LIFE GUARD

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Sept. 10.—After lying in the bottom of the plunge here for several minutes little Eleanor Halterman was rescued by Life Guard Harry Lee and by the use of a pulmotor was resuscitated. The little girl had been sick, her parents explained, and ordered not to go swimming.

NEW CLUB FORMED

ANAHEIM, Sept. 10.—Not to be outdone by Santa Ana in having a new luncheon club in the Round Table, the U. S. A. club, standing for Unison, Service and Americanism, and favoring the elimination of the influence of secret organizations in government, has been formed here.

FLOUR TRADE SLACK

"THE BEST IS NONE TOO GOOD"—

And that is just what we considered when we made arrangements for our

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS' MIDDIES and SKIRTS

We have secured for you what we honestly believe to be the best all-round Middie and Skirt made—price and quality considered—and priced to you for what you usually pay for less quality garments.

The Middies

are made of strong light weight mercerized Middy Jeans, collar and cuffs of fine French serge, braid trim—fresh water pearl buttons throughout—they resist breakage and stay white. Lockstitch used prevents raveling and does not chafe the shoulders—the seams are finished flat on the inside. Narrowed at the hips so that you do not have to pin it into an awkward bunch to make it fit. Yoke is curved in front where the curve is needed to give the effect of a straight line when worn—and straight across the back. To sum up—Comfort, Neatness, Style, Finish. Distinction—and IT COSTS NO MORE.

Special Student Values

The Skirts

are made of the highest grade serge of good color and texture.

Full Knife Pleats to make it hang well and to give you plenty of room and hold their press. Buttoned onto a sateen waist that can be laundered often and allows quick change from skirt to Gym Bloomers without taking off middy.

Display at Burbank Attracts Big Crowds

ter, Miss Virginia Clark. Secretary and Mrs. Howard I. Wood were also present, as were Ralph A. Lynd of The Glendale Evening News and Mrs. Lynd.

The Glendale booth, in charge of George H. Lyons and L. H. Wilson, with its striking array of silver trophies won at the Pasadena Tournament of Roses and elsewhere, was pronounced by many visitors to the exposition one of the most impressive displays on the grounds, and the huge silver cups flanking the basket of flowers donated by Sam Warren, city park superintendent, attracted favorable comment from all who visited the booth.

Glendale Exhibits

R. E. Johnston, president of the Concrete Brick & Tile Co., 440 South San Fernando Road, and Mrs. Johnston, were at the booth where the firm's products were shown, and the Glendale Motor Car Co., 124 West Colorado street, is displaying Maxwells and Chrysler cars.

Today's program will include an organ recital, starting at 2:30 o'clock and the introduction of a number of prominent moving pic- ture stars, and at night the Burbank municipal band will render a program which will be featured by a vocal solo by Mrs. Dwight Crittenden and a saxophone quartet.

Noted Artists to Give Music Club Program

The Zoellner quartet and Victor Edmunds, Welsh tenor, will be feature artists appearing Tuesday night, October 7, at the Tuesday Afternoon club as the first fall program of the Glendale Music club. This program will prove most attractive to the club members, for the quartet artists and Mr. Edmunds are nationally known musicians.

The Zoellner quartet including Antoinette, Joseph, Jr., Amandus and Joseph, Sr., Zoellner, have played in all the Europeon centers of art, have been decorated by royalty and have appeared in the important cities of United States and Canada.

Mr. Edmunds, who will give two song groups, has won many laurels for his concert, oratorio and recital work.
